

Bugs Bees and Native Trees Approved List of Suppliers of Native Trees

Please find a list of suppliers of native tree species as recommended by Bugs Bees and Native Trees. We will highlight on this list where the specific supplier is willing to provide a discount to Bugs Bees and Native Tree Registered participants. If this is the case please provide them with your registration code which we will be sending out to you.

Our aim is to help to link interested community groups with suppliers. The size of trees which you decide to plant will dictate the price of the trees. Larger saplings of 5-6 ft in height, the size which you would most typically see in garden centres will cost more, possibly up to 25 euros each. Small saplings of 30cm in height are much less expensive, at perhaps only a few euro per plant. These small plants would catch up with, and typically overtake a larger planted tree within 3-4 years. It is very important to note however that smaller trees will need more aftercare in the first few years until fully established. We would still advise the use of rabbit guards to protect the trees from foraging rabbits, as well as stakes to make sure that the trees remain visible and aren't inadvertently mown down or trodden on. Furthermore, small saplings need some aftercare by keeping them weed and grass-free around the bases for a few years to prevent the trees themselves from being smothered by competing plants.

As we are a small but growing charity we are unable to cover any costs for tree plantings for private landowners. However, for community groups such as schools, if you are unable to fully cover the cost of your own trees, please contact us to discuss via our email info@bugsbeesandnativetrees.com. If we are able to pay a stipend towards your costs (typically 50%), we would confirm this before any purchase is made. We would then refund you the agreed amount to your bank account IBAN and BIC subject to receiving your purchase receipt.

In compiling this list, we've tried as much as possible to include tree suppliers and nurseries that sell trees that have been grown from locally collected native tree seeds on the Island of Ireland, and where possible, from the same region as the supplier. If we are not aware of a local supplier, please get in touch with one of the listed suppliers who is able to deliver nationwide.

By using locally sourced tree seeds we are both selecting trees that are particularly adapted to the local environment. We are also preserving the genetic diversity of our own native trees. By reducing our dependence on imported trees, we are reducing the risk of imported diseases such as Dutch Elm disease and Ash Dieback which continue to devastate our native tree populations.

Use the list below to locate a local supplier. If we are not aware of a local supplier of native trees, a number of suppliers offer nationwide delivery. Please refer to our website for more information on how to plant your trees.

Did you know that perhaps the most truly sustainable method of restocking our native trees is to grow them yourself from seed? By collecting and growing seeds from remnants of woodlands in your own area you can help bring back what we lost centuries ago. We plan to write a 'how to start your own native tree nursery' in the coming weeks, and so keep an eye out for this on your website.

If you are a supplier of high quality native trees and would be interested in being added to this list, please get in touch.

Tree Suppliers in Northern Ireland

In Northern Ireland, Bugs Bees and Native Trees Recommend The Conservation Volunteers (TCV). They are based on the Clondeboye estate in County Down, but only supply native trees which have been locally grown from locally sourced seeds.

TCV can supply any quantity of native trees required for tree planting projects for private landowners, schools, community groups and public bodies. All of the trees TCV supply to biodiversity/ environmental projects will be grown from locally sourced seed. To arrange, please contact your nearest office:

If it is not possible to secure via The Conservation Volunteers, please have a look at our list of private Nurseries and Garden Centres below. We have checked that these suppliers stock native trees, but the list is by no means exhaustive. Feel free to check in your usual garden centre for native trees!
